Andrew Jackson's
HERMITAGE
HOME OF THE PEOPLE'S PRESIDENT

TODAY. TOMORROW. YEARS TO COME.

TODAY, TOMORROW and years to come . . .

Rated as Tennessee's premier historic site, The Hermitage was home to our 7th President, Andrew Jackson, from 1804 until his death in 1845. It is considered by many experts to be the best preserved early presidential home.

The Hermitage has welcomed more than 16 million visitors from around the world since opening as a museum in 1889. It has been continuously operated and managed by the Andrew Jackson Foundation. It ranks as one of the most-visited presidential museums in the nation and has been named the #1 historic site in the state of Tennessee.

It is the gifts of our steadfast and dedicated donors that have made our success possible. It is their support throughout the years that brings life to our dreams.

The 7th President had a significant impact on the development of America as a young nation. His determined leadership served to shape a unique American society based on new democratic principles and secure the nation's future at a time when both democracy and national unity were being severely tested. Jackson represents the best of America's promise. He also embodies some of its greatest sins.

The Foundation's duty is to present this full story of Jackson – pros and cons – as an integral part of the story of our nation. It is the driving focus of the Foundation to increase public understanding of the complex life of Andrew Jackson and present his relevance to events of today.

Preserving the history of Andrew Jackson and his presidential home is the foundation on which our mission rests. His legacy continues to impact American democracy and shape history.

Your generosity has helped to preserve Andrew Jackson's Hermitage and bring life to our nation's history. Your future commitment through the establishment of an estate gift will help us to uphold our mission and secure Andrew Jackson's Hermitage for generations to come.

OLD HICKORY SOCIETY

Andrew Jackson's toughness and determination reminded his troops of a firmly rooted hickory tree and earned him the nickname "Old Hickory." Established as a part of the Foundation's commemoration of the 250th birthday of Andrew Jackson, the Old Hickory Society recognizes and honors donors who have made provision for the Andrew Jackson Foundation in their estate plans. It is that determined generosity and vision that helps to ensure our organization remains firmly rooted and strong for future generations. No minimum gift amount is required for membership in the society.

To become a founding member of the Old Hickory Society or to learn more, please contact the Foundation's development office at 615-889-2941 ext. 240.

We would be delighted to speak with you about how you can join the Old Hickory Society today.
